

One week it seemed as if all my friends were away on vacation because I couldn't find anyone to play with. I was so bored and anxious to do something that I thought I was going to go crazy.

My dad suggested I play with my dog and that turned out to be a great idea.

My dog was so excited when I picked up the ball. I can always count on her to be happy to see me – even if I haven't played with her in a while. She is so loyal.
