

Or is Santa part of some silly story that only gullible little kids think is true?

Have adults been lying all this time and why is that something they would do?